Theoris Services merges with Reliable Solutions Corp

Global IT and engineering firm expands footprint to downtown Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS – Theoris Services, a global IT and engineering professional services firm based in Indianapolis, today announced its merger with Reliable Solutions Corp (RSC), a software development firm also based in Indianapolis. The new company will operate as Theoris Services with more than 400 consultants.

David Lovell, president of Theoris Services, will continue to serve in that role after the merger. He brings more than 35 years of IT services experience including over 25 years in various roles at Theoris.

“Theoris and RSC have extensive experience providing clients with strategic IT services,” said Lovell. “Together, we are uniquely positioned to fuel innovation and guide our partners to the most effective business solutions.”

RSC President Scott Alexander will become vice president of Theoris Solutions, a division of Theoris Services. Prior to joining RSC in 2014, Alexander assisted AIT Laboratories in the company’s expansion into the bioscience sector. Earlier in his career, he served in a variety of roles at Anaclim, Eli Lilly and Company and Farm Bureau Insurance.

“As a leader at RSC, my goal has always been to provide custom-designed solutions tailored to our clients’ individual needs and cultivate a challenging, family environment for our team members,” said Alexander. “Merging with Theoris enables us to better serve a more diverse, growing client base utilizing the global resources now available.”

Company officials say the merger allows Theoris to continue building its presence in downtown Indianapolis. Theoris maintains its corporate office at Keystone at the Crossing in Indianapolis with additional offices in Exton, Pa., Orlando, Fla., and Nottingham, England.

The Orlando office, located at an office park in Millenia Lakes, is the company’s latest addition to serve a growing and diverse group of customers in a variety of industries.

“By entering this market, we are on a strong growth trajectory,” said Lovell. “Our deep industry knowledge positions us to best serve Florida’s industries including aerospace and defense needs.”
